

Dr Danielle Sinnett is an environmental scientist with expertise in green infrastructure and land regeneration. She is an associate professor in the Centre for Sustainable Planning and Environments at the University of the West of England. Her research has focussed on the delivery of green infrastructure on urban areas, including as a mechanism to regenerate brownfield and contaminated land, and the benefits of green infrastructure.